Quick Facts about Grade Point Averages (GPAs)

- Students who take high school credit courses earn a Grade Point Average (GPA) which is recorded on the student's transcript.
- When a student applies to colleges, scholarship programs or employers and provides a transcript, the GPA of the individual is usually considered as a factor in selection of the individual.
- The Grade Point Average is composed of all the high school credit courses a student takes, except courses designated as local credit or high school credits transferred from institutions that are nonaccredited, nonpublic schools, including home school (i.e. office practice, remedial courses, any athletics credits beyond 2 full credits, etc.) When students take high school credit courses in junior high, these courses count in the GPA.
- If a course is re-taken, each semester completed will be included in the GPA. Students who fail a class for credit that is required for graduation must re-take the course. Both the previous and new grades will be included in the GPA.
- Some high school credit courses are "weighted," meaning they earn additional value in the GPA. For each semester completed in a "weighted" class, the student earns 10 additional points on the average for the class.
- When a course is a full credit, each semester grade is counted in the GPA and if the course is weighted, the student earns 10 additional points on each semester average for the class.
- "Weighted" courses include the following types of classes:
 - Advanced Placement
 - Pre-Advanced Placement
 - University Preparatory
 - Dual Credit
 - Foreign Languages III and higher
 - Other designated Advanced/Honors Classes
 - Art IV
 - Band IV
 - Choir IV

- Students who are in the "Top Ten Percent" of their class at the end of the junior year, mid-senior year or end of the senior year are automatically admitted to Texas public colleges and universities, if they meet the application deadlines.
- A student in the "Top Ten Percent" should apply for college and scholarships based on the official rank in place at the time of the college or scholarship deadline. Ranks pertaining to the "Top Ten Percent" are posted at the end of the junior year, mid-senior year and end of the senior year.
- In order to be in the "Top Ten Percent," the student must complete the Recommended or Distinguished Achievement Plan and have a GPA in the top ten percent of the class. The student must have graduated from a public high school in Texas accredited by a generally recognized accrediting organization.

- Students in the “Top Ten Percent” are eligible for college scholarships offered through the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.
- The student with the highest GPA at the end of the senior year (through the 5th six weeks) is determined to be the Valedictorian. (The student must have completed the last three semesters at Flour Bluff ISD.)
- The student with the second highest GPA at the end of the senior year (through the 5th six weeks) is determined to be the Salutatorian. (The student must have completed the last three semesters at Flour Bluff ISD.)
- The most critical factors in determining a student’s GPA are the number of weighted and unweighted courses the student takes over their entire high school credit career and the grade the student earns in the courses.
- Students have the option to start taking high school credit courses while in the junior high.
- Students may also take high school credit courses in summer school, by correspondence or distance learning and as articulated credit or dual credit at designated colleges and universities. (i.e. Del Mar College, Texas A & M University—Corpus Christi, Del Mar Regional Technical Center, Craft Training Center, etc.)

- Students who transfer high school credits for courses designated as Advanced Placement, Pre-Advanced Placement, dual credit or advanced credit from accredited institutions shall receive weighted credits counted toward the GPA as approved by the FBISD Board of Trustees.
- For students who have letter grades such as A, A+, A-, etc., a board-approved conversion scale is used to determine the numerical average.
- Graduating seniors who have maintained a cumulative average of 90 or above and are completing the Recommended or Distinguished Achievement Program shall be recognized as graduating with academic distinction. No rounding up shall be used in this calculation.
